

NEPA COMPLIANCE

GUIDING CLIENTS THROUGH THE NEPA PROCESS

As a national leader in National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) compliance, SWCA provides a full range of environmental planning, management, and regulatory compliance services needed to assist clients and move projects from conception to successful, on-time completion. Our environmental professionals stay up-to-date on evolving federal regulations, relevant agency policies and procedures, and NEPA-related case law. SWCA's staff includes highly experienced and nationally recognized instructors who provide NEPA training to participants across the United States.

NEPA compliance can be a complex process. Years of experience have enabled SWCA to develop ways to streamline NEPA procedures. SWCA's in-house team of planners and resource specialists have decades of combined experience in environmental planning and analysis. We handle process management, resource analysis, public involvement, agency coordination, mitigation planning, and natural and human resource impact analysis. Our multidisciplinary teams have successfully worked on NEPA projects for land exchanges, transmission lines, renewable energy, mining, railroad and highway projects, and a variety of other undertakings. SWCA offers strong project management, and our NEPA experts have experience in all resource areas, communicate effectively, and work closely with clients, cooperating agencies, stakeholders, and the public.
