

SEE BEYOND POLICY CHANGE TO WHAT MATTERS FOR YOUR PROJECT

Developed by our team of policy and environmental advisors, SWCA's Regulatory Radar is a regulatory intelligence platform that translates emerging environmental policy into practical, operational insight. We bridge the gap between complex legal language and on-the-ground reality, providing you with the exact context needed to manage projects, maintain compliance, and optimize operations.

Powered by SWCA's regulatory and technical leaders, Regulatory Radar combines policy insight with real-world experience across permitting, environmental review, compliance requirements and project delivery. Each insight includes the SWCA Lens, where SWCA advisors explain how a regulatory development may play out in practice, what they are seeing across projects and which issues may deserve closer attention.

BUILT FOR TEAMS NAVIGATING REGULATORY CHANGE

Regulatory Radar is designed for organizations whose projects, investments, and operations depend on understanding environmental policy before it becomes a schedule, compliance, or business risk. It gives teams responsible for planning, permitting, compliance, legal strategy, and executive decisions a shared view of what is changing and why it matters.

PROJECT AND PROGRAM LEADERS

Anticipate policy developments that could affect scope, approvals, schedules, or budgets, and bring regulatory considerations into planning earlier.

ENVIRONMENTAL, PERMITTING, AND COMPLIANCE TEAMS

Focus on the agencies, jurisdictions, and policy areas relevant to their work, with practical context for evaluating potential impacts.

LEGAL, GOVERNMENT AFFAIRS, AND RISK PROFESSIONALS

Track how rules and policies are progressing and give internal stakeholders a clearer basis for coordinated action.

EXECUTIVES AND BUSINESS LEADERS

See emerging issues across markets and operations, support informed decisions, and reduce the chance that a material change is recognized too late.
